

FACSIMILE REPRINTS IN HERPETOLOGY

Initiated in 1961, this series serves to make rare and important books and papers on amphibians and reptiles available once again to persons working in the field. All reprints are exact photolithographic facsimiles; all are paperbound unless otherwise indicated. Small issues are sent without additional charge to all members of the SSAR, in addition to the Journal of Herpetology and Herpetological Review; book-length reprints are purchased separately, but SSAR members receive a discount if ordered in advance of publication.

- BOJANUS, L. H. 1819-1821. Anatome Testudinis Europaeae. The classic atlas of turtle anatomy, with an introduction by A. S. Romer. 200 pages (7 x 10 in.) plus 40 plates (10 x 14 in.)

Herpetological Review

Herpetological Review is the principle newsletter for the herpetological community, now published bi-monthly by SSAR and the Herpetologists' League. It contains newsnotes about people, institutions, programs and current events of interest to amphibian and reptile biologists, including a "Letters to the Editor" section, abstracts of papers presented at major herpetological meetings, book reviews and a section for short communications.

A primary service of the Review is publication of a comprehensive list of CURRENT HERPETOLOGICAL TITLES to keep readers abreast of the literature in the field. For example, some 3950 titles for 1969 alone were listed. 8½ x 11 inches; Illustrated.
